Frequently Asked Questions

Q: Why do my appliances seem to fail more often in San Francisco?

A: San Francisco's unique conditions are tough on appliances. Our cool, salt-air accelerated corrosion, hard water causes mineral buildup, and many homes have older electrical systems and gas lines not designed for today's high-efficiency units. The constant moisture in neighborhoods like the Sunset and Richmond can also lead to mold and mildew issues in appliances.

Q: How quickly can you respond to an emergency repair in SF?

A: We prioritize emergencies and understand a broken refrigerator or washer in a San Francisco home is a crisis. Our local teams are dispatched from neighborhoods across the city, allowing for rapid response. We account for traffic patterns, from downtown congestion to bridge delays, to get to you fast.

Q: Are you familiar with the older appliances found in SF homes?

A: Absolutely. We're experts in the vintage ranges, refrigerators, and laundry units common in San Francisco's historic homes, from Victorians in Alamo Square to mid-century builds in West Portal. We source specialized parts and understand the quirks of maintaining these classic appliances while ensuring they operate safely.

Q: Do you service all types of San Francisco housing?

A: Yes, from high-rise condos in SOMA and single-family homes in Noe Valley to in-law units and classic apartments throughout the city. We're equipped for tight spaces, secure building access, and the specific challenges of appliance installation and repair in San Francisco's diverse housing stock.

Q: What's the most common repair you see for SF refrigerators?

A: Condenser coil issues are frequent due to dust and pet hair accumulation in our dense urban environment, causing overheating. We also frequently repair door seals compromised by our moisture, and fix temperature fluctuations caused by placing units in warm, poorly ventilated spots in compact San Francisco kitchens.
