Frequently Asked Questions

Q: Why does my refrigerator run constantly in Denton?

A: Denton's prolonged high temperatures, often exceeding 100°F, force your refrigerator's compressor to work much harder to maintain temperature. This constant strain can lead to premature failure. Ensuring proper ventilation around the unit and checking door seals are crucial first steps our technicians always evaluate during a Denton service call.

Q: Is hard water damaging my appliances?

A: Yes, Denton's water is moderately hard, which means it contains dissolved minerals like calcium and magnesium. Over time, these minerals build up inside appliances like dishwashers and washing machines, reducing efficiency, causing clogs, and shortening their lifespan. We often recommend and can install inline water softeners for clients in areas with particularly heavy mineral content.

Q: How quickly can you respond to an emergency repair?

A: We prioritize emergency calls, especially for critical appliances like refrigerators during our hot summers. For most neighborhoods within the Denton city limits, including the UNT and TWU areas, we can often provide same-day service. Our fleet is strategically located to serve communities from Robson Ranch to Denton Heights efficiently.

Q: Do you service older homes in historic districts?

A: Absolutely. We are experienced with the unique electrical and plumbing setups found in Denton's older homes, including those near the Courthouse-on-the-Square. Many historic homes have older wiring or gas lines that require specific knowledge to safely service appliances, which our local technicians are trained to handle.

Q: What's the most common dryer issue you see in Denton?

A: Lint buildup in dryer vents is a major issue here. The combination of heavy use and our humidity creates a perfect environment for dense lint blockages. This not only reduces efficiency but is a serious fire hazard. We recommend and perform thorough vent cleaning as part of our dryer repair service across all Denton neighborhoods.
